

Don't Doubt Your Wife!

How many men are big enough to admit they are wrong—especially to their wives! John Manning had a foolish quarrel with his wife because she played tennis, against his wishes, with an ex-sultor. He went home from the house party in anger.

Then her heart melted. It was so silly of him to be jealous of Herbert. Of course, Herbert loved her, but she had married John! And Herbert had time to play with her. John didn't. He was a self-made man. He played little himself, and couldn't understand that a wife, to be happy, must have some play.

Because she played with other; he doubted her. When a series of unfortunate circumstances placed her in an embarrassing situation where she needed his sympathy, support and trust—the things she had a right to expect from her husband—he doubted her! He told her that any clever woman could make any man believe anything. Lies, he called the truths she gave him! "Don't Doubt Your Wife," warns Leah Baird in her first picture for Associated Exhibitors, showing Tuesday, October 3, at the Torrance Theatre. Splendid support is given Miss Baird by Edward Peil as the husband and Emory Johnson as the friend. Others in the cast are Mrs. Mathilde Brundage and Katherine Lewis. Miss Baird wrote the story and adapted it to the screen. James W. Horne has given it spectacular direction.

China Missionary To Speak Sunday

DR. DON NICHOLS

Members of the congregation of the First Methodist Church of Torrance, and their friends are anticipating an intellectual treat Sunday evening when they attend the lecture given by Rev. Don Nichols.

Dr. Nichols who has been a missionary for many years is also a gifted speaker and his many years in the missionary field in China and other foreign countries enables him to give a discourse that is both instructive and entertaining. A full house is expected to greet the gifted speaker who is paying Torrance a compliment by arranging his itinerary so as to include this city.

Two Parties With One Thought—Cal.

By a singular co-incidence two groups of friends of Judge J. L. King, both coming from the latter's old home in Pennsylvania and both travelling by automobile over the same route arrived in Torrance at about the same time.

The guests of the city official are Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McElwain who left New Kingston, Penn., five weeks ago over the Santa Fe trail and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Leslie who left the eastern city two weeks later.

While both parties are well known to the other neither happened to tell of their contemplated trip and the surprise of finding each other in Torrance was mutual. Mrs. Leslie is a sister-in-law of Judge King's and will remain for some time in this section.

Elects President of Association

The first formal meeting of the recently organized Business Men's Association of Torrance took place last night when a president was chosen and a committee appointed to submit for approval an outline of the future work of the association.

The directors, or board of governors, as they are termed include Hurum Reeves, Sam Rappaport, Geo. Peckham, J. H. Fess and Fred Palmer. By-laws have already been adopted by the organization and the plan of activities outlined last night include advertising, hours of opening and closing, contests, sales days, in addition to many more personal matters such as credits and methods of accounting on which the governors will act within the next two weeks.

New Restaurant Manager Arrives

Among the recent arrivals in Torrance who have decided to make this city their future home, is Russell D. Smith, a former druggist and later a cafe proprietor of Los Angeles.

Mr. Smith, accompanied by his wife and the latter's mother, are preparing to move into the home now being vacated of Dr. A. P. Stevenson, on Grammercy street.

In casting about for a business opening Mr. Smith decided to re-enter the restaurant business and has purchased the well-known Roberts' Cafe on Cabrillo street near Carson.

While the new proprietor has a high mark to shoot at in supplying the wants of the many satisfied customers of the Roberts' restaurant, his knowledge of the game and pleasing personality will undoubtedly make him and his wife a host of friends.

Mothers are asked to remember to help place the fern in their child's grade for the first month. We have now a membership of 114, and we ask that large majority of that number attend our first meeting.
